For these reasons, Cov. Bollock thinks a police must be had, to preserve the morals rendered independent of local influences by r ceiving their appointments from a source Unit cannot be thus affected. He argues that there is an advancing demoralization of the people, arising from the changing con ditions of our social life, and the price of our public presperity and wealth, evinced In an alarming increase of officiaes against person and property; of licention-ness and gambling; as well as of insanity and rannerism .- that are directly traceable to lives police, however honest or well-disposed, seem to a great extent headequate.

A correspondent of the New York Tribine, writing from Montgomery, gives some details of the manner in which the election in Althama was so engineered as to render the rejection of the constitution almost : certain result. The most common method of preventing the naprotected colored men from voting was stationing armed bands at every poiling place, who challenged, questioned and budgered in every way possible such yoters as they could not intialdate, by their presence and personal threats. But various office tricks were resorted to with effect to accomplish the same end. It is mentioned that in Lowndes County only one pelling place was opened, and that in a very inconvenient place, so that voters had to swim the waters of the Big Swamp .---Many did swim across, and one man was drawned in the attempt. In other places, having made the vote as small as possible by the practices to which we have referred, the whole record, with the ballot boxes, was stolen, and thus the vote of the county would be lost. The challengers were successful in preventing all from veting who did not give the precise names by which they were registered. Thus a freedman in registering would give his name as "Se" for Josiah, or Cyrus. The register would nut it down as one of the latter names, and if he did not remomber by which name he was registered his vote was lost. Even Justice Statebrigh corrected Mr. Winkle's name when the latter gave it clearly; but these "conservative" judges would not allow such amendment even when satisfied that the person was the same.

An Irish paper says about Train's lectures that thousands of people run actually wild with cuthusia-in about one man, and keeping up that state of excitement for over four hours, breaking in Through windows, barsting doors and knocking all who came before them down in order to get to hear him. For over an hour the mob of the city labored at the doors trying to get in, bundreds of them without havis a bought a ticket; the same class it was that burst in through who, headless of the comfort of all others. drove headleng into every department of the house, not even the cries of females but accesting them. It wasn't that the standing or sitting room was occupied - capacious as 1. is, its being throughd conveys no idea of the numbers present. To the lodges along the galleries men held on by their firgers; some of the great prefied beams that support the roof had their occupants, and even to the top of the organ people climbed. On several accasions during the delivery of the It clure there were such interruptions from the terrible crush that Mr. Train threatened if order was not restored, to leave the building, and twice had be to wait over five minutes before it could be established.

A case of mysterious disappearance is narrated in the Euclish journals. On the 8th of January the Rev. Mr. Speke, a brother of the January African traveller, left his home in Somerstishire to go be London. He bought a return ticket, intend ing to come back the next morning, and he ordered his groom to be in waiting for him at the station. Arrived safely in Lendon, he drove to his brother-in-law's house, made several appointments, and then left the boase, telling the servant that he was going on business to Westminsterhe was going on business to Westminster— a district of London—and would buy him-self a new hat on the read. He stopped at a batter's, bought a hat, ordered it to be sent to his brother-in-law's house and then left the sloop. The linns of his leaving is fixed at half-past fixed. M., at which bour it is nearly dark in London. Nothing has since been heard or seen of Mr Speke, since he disappeared. A large reward has been offered for information of his where-

A very attractive service was held a Zlon's Church, yesterday afternoon, on the eccasion of the marriage of Mr. Landers one of Newport's enterprising young men now residing at St. Louis, and Miss Cozzens daughter of Hen. Wm. C. Cozzens. Rev. Mr. Child was the officiating clergyman. Two grooms and bricks and were in sitendance; and a pleasing feature of the ceremony was the presence of the brides aronged in order by the chancel and having an interested participation in the service.

Nativus -- la justice to our correspondcot who wrote under this name, a few days since, it is proper for us to say that, three days ago, we received a second communication from him in reply to "Newporter," the publication of which he waiged, as many of its points were covered by the recommunication, in which he names a numher of immicipal and county officers in this city which are held by persons from other States, and whose selection for those places he fully approves.

He disclaims all Intention to speak dispuragingly of the gentlemen referred to by "Slustitia," or other citizens, whether natives or "strangers," His communication closes with the following words: "Who but will admit, that it would be not only impolicy, but extreme folly to stop to inquire, in regard to the appointment of such an officer, concerning the particular locality of his birth. No, gentlemen, what I contend for is that, all other things being equal, News porters should have the preference, and na tive talents be encouraged. If a teacher is to be appointed in our public schools, and there is a son or daughter of Newport duced and read a well written address on equally well educated and "apt to teach," the appropriate work of the Order and its he or she should have the preference over other applicants, and we should see to i of the State, and execute the laws, who are that no "ring," be allowed to be formed, in our midst, of "outsiders" who shall obtain effective speaking on the theme of temper the influence and use it to keep out matives and give the preference to some friend, relative or acquaintance, no better qualified, from another State. The defalcations and robberies in New York during 1866 averaged one in every menth, and the present year foreshedows crop bigger even than that. Since the first of January we have been treated with the details of seven "first class" robberies, and pure State, while peeling a potato, allowed of defolcations in three of the principal the knife to slip in such a way as to loffict banks, and now we have another to add to a deep gash between the thumb and finger the list. The criminal was a cashler in the importing house of Erra Goodsich & Co., and was dressed by Dr. Cotton. and the price of his crime is variously estimated at from $199,000 to $300,0000. He had led a fast life, owned a yacht, a span of borses, splendid mansion, etc., and simply the late fire in Levin St ? borrowed the money to keep up appearances, He has retired from the city, and the gentlemen connected with the New York pelice department are extremely auxious to ascertain his present place of residence.

INSURDECTION IN SPAIN.

A Washington special says the Hourt Committee of Claims have agreed to report a bill tunking an award of the $100,000 reward offered for the capture of Jefferson

The action of Gen. Hancock in removing the Street Connaissioners and certain mem bers of the City Council of New Orleans is under review at the Hendquarters of Gen-Grant. The deposed officials have present ed their view of the matter, and Gen. Han sock has forwarded other information bear ing on the case.

Semi official telegrams received from Alamma Indicate that it is not yet certain at Gen, Meade's headquarters whether the new Constitution has or has not been rati the I. The Republicans of the Congressional Executive Committee admit, however, that it has been lost by 4000 or 5000 votes.

A Washington special says Congressmen are receiving letters, from their constituents arging a speedy admission of Alabama.
